

Felina's scrawls 82

Cuura stated there should be a secret passage in the cellar... sure! And she wanted me to search in the coals... Yeah, right... look at her. Miss blackness already tried to find something...

Grimwald had less problems with the mess... And they found... the sewers ☺

Then there was the issue with a dwarf. Came into our house the dwarven way and wanted to see hands. After his rather impolite intrusion of our peaceful household I can only offer to put my fist upon his nose if he want to see my hand. Then someone gives Nethander away. Clearly satisfied with what he was after he left without a word. No way! I tried to stop him and get some answers out of him... but to no avail. He carried me to his inn ... After a while he let a barber do his beard... At least I got some hairs from him now... can be useful ☺

Then there was the troll hunt... Well I am not too eager to join... but as it is a preemptive strike I will join to defend the people of this city... And to fight evil in general...

We join a patrol of the flaming fist. The leader asks what we can individually... Good question... What can I do on a troll hunt... Well... everything or nothing... not the answer he is waiting for, I think... so I tell him I can scout. But really, what can I do... I can handle civilized situations by talking, seducing or even put a knife in one's back... but what do I do against a troll? Or a group of trolls...

After a while we encounter a group of trolls... then things become complicated as they try to lure us in an ambush while we try to lure them in ours...

Cuura is smashing trolls beyond regeneration with a single blows... Bits of troll flying everywhere...

I try to find a spot where help is needed most... and discover a troll sneaking to someone's rear... good! He's mine! I slay it singlehandedly... an I proud?... yes I am... h'm... strange feeling...

Some of the trolls wear expensive armor... good! Let's go back to town and sell it! And report it as well of course...
